2022 Construction Industry Council

Introduction

Launched in 2019, the Registered Specialist Trade Contractors Scheme (RSTCS) was an industry-wide driven and recognised registration scheme in Hong Kong for sub-contractors established by the Construction Industry Council (CIC). The RSTCS aims to build up a pool of professional and committed trade contractors with specialised skills through a recognised registration system for development of the construction industry.

The RSTCS comprises of two registers namely the Register of Specialist Trade Contractors and the Register of Subcontractors. Registered Specialist Trade Contractors (RSTCs) are applicable for the latest eleven Designated Trades of Concreting(S01), Concreting Formwork(S02), Curtain Wall(S03), Demolition(S04), Erection of Concrete Precast Component(S05), Reinforcement Bar Fixing(S06), Scaffolding (S07), Plastering (S08), Suspended Ceiling(S09), Tower Crane (Erecting, Dismantling and Altering Height)(S10) and Building Drainage Installation(S11). All RSTCs are accredited by fulfilling a set of comprehensive registration requirements in terms of safety, management, job experience, execution, finance and integrity management and they are further classified into Group 1 and Group 2 subject to different tender limits as tabulated below and as announced in the Scheme Website. The Registered Subcontractors (RSs) are applicable for other common civil, building, electrical and mechanical trades. For more details of the RSTCS, please browse the Scheme Website at www.rstc.cic.hk.

The Development Bureau and the Housing Authority strongly support the CIC on implementation of the RSTCS and fully mandated the engagement of registered companies and imposed tender limits arrangements on subcontracts in all public works contracts in accordance with the RSTCS. To promote and facilitate the adoption of the RSTCS in quasi-public/private sector projects, the CIC publishes this set of model clauses for ease of engagement of subcontractors registered from the RSTCS.

This set of model clauses may serves as useful reference for client organisations for adoption of the RSTCS in their construction contracts, but it may be amended to suit the terminology and project practices of the client organisations.
